

Online Degrees in as Few as 2 Years
©2008 Nextag, Inc

- Criminal Justice
- Education
- Nursing
- Business
- Health Care
- Other

Poll: Majority of Undecided Voters are Women

Fri, October 24, 2008 - 11:42 AM

A new poll shows that about 8 percent of registered voters nationally are undecided in the presidential race, with women representing a majority of the group.

The Center for American Women and Politics, analyzing numbers from a poll done by the Pew Research Center for the People and the Press, reports that women are 60 percent of all undecided registered voters.

There are fewer non-white than white registered voters having not yet chosen a candidate – 6 percent of non-white voters overall and 4 percent of African-American voters are undecided, the study shows.

-- Billy House, Media General News Service

(0) Comments Permalink

<< October 2008 >>

S	M	T	W	T	F	S
			1	2	3	4
5	6	7	8	9	10	11
12	13	14	15	16	17	18
19	20	21	22	23	24	25
26	27	28	29	30	31

Search

Advanced Search

Most recent entries

- Maverick Palin Getting Too Mavericky?
- Congressman spotted walking to Palin event
- Bill Clinton To Appear With Obama at Fla. Event
- Tight Races Abound in Va.
- Democrats turn attention to Georgia
- Barry Goldwater's Family Spat Over Prez Choice
- GOP House Woes: Foxx In Trouble?
- Poll: Majority of Undecided Voters are Women
- Grandson Barack in Hawaii
- The Joe McCain 9-1-1 Tape
- Fairfax May Be Slow to Report Results
- Obama Leading in Rural Areas?